AUGUSTA, April 3.

The Liquor Bill passed the House this evening at 6 o'clock, as amended in the Senate, 78 to 68.

Mr. Choate arrived this afternoon, and will probably speak on Saturday. W.

Hearing of Judge Davis.

The hearing of Judge Davis, before the Legislature, will commence this day, probably in the Representative's Hall. Rufus Choate, Richard H Dana, Jr., and Henry W Paine, all of Massachusetts, will appear as counsel for Judge Davis. These eminent counsellors have been taken instead of those in the State, for the purpose of avoiding any appearance of political bias. The case in its real merits, is too important to have the defense placed on partisan grounds; and hence the propriety and necessity of passing over the eminent counsellors of Maine, and to employ those of another State, the foremost of whom is politically opposed to Judge Davis, but whose whole mind and instincts are in favor of the independence of the Judiciary, and in opposition to the recklessness which marks the present proceedings, to crush the Judiciary beneath the Executive power of the State, and the domination of party politics.

It has been determined, beforehand, in secret party caucus, to crush out Judge Davis, whatever may appear at the hearing; but it is none the less important that the right be vindicated, in the ablest manner, in the proceedings, though nothing shall avail as to the final vote of these trial jurors of the Legislature, who have pledged themselves, beforehand, to condemn.

The case has occasioned so much feeling throughout the State, that many, notwithstanding the bad traveling, will flock to Augusta to witness the progress of the defense, and to listen to the words of legal and patriotic wisdom, which will be spoken on the occasion. State trials are rare, and rarer still are the cases where the jurors, impannelled, are pledged beforehand to convict; and in which the responsibilities of a trial are attempted to be dodged, by conducting a veritable impeachment, in the form of an address.

Arrangements will probably be made to have full and accurate reports of all the proceedings and sayings on the occasion, to lay before the people of the State.

The Portland "State of Maine" says that the mammoth British Steamer, now in process of construction, is to make her first trip to Portland, and perhaps make that port her permanent route. The cost of the vessel is estimated at one million sterling, and the mere cost of launching her at £40,000. This is to be done by excavating the ground beneath her and letting her drop into the water as she lies.

The authorities and the people of Portland have taken a deep interest in making known the capacity and advantages of their harbor, and the necessary preparations are now being made in that city, for the construction of a suitable wharf, for the accommodation of this Leviathan of a steamer.

The Washington correspondent of the Boston Atlas says that among the names suggested in connection with the Republican nomination for the Presidency, is that of Wm. S. Dayton, late U. S. Senator from New Jersey. He is eminently fitted for the station, and, it is said, would be as strong if not only in New Jersey, but in Pennsylvania, in both which States the "conservative" elements (so called) are strong, and must be consulted. Let us try all things, and hold fast that which is good.—There is no opposition at Washington in the Republican ranks, to cabal or intrigue in reference to the nomination. The object is to succeed, fairly and honestly, but not disregarding the petulant notions or prejudices, if you please, of influential localities. We must not sacrifice principle, but we may combine policy with it.

This same correspondent says that the Missourians having installed themselves in power in Kansas, what is intended to be done, is to maintain them in it, by the army of the United States; and that this will certainly be accomplished, if the executive power of the nation remains in its present hands. It is impossible that the free State men of Kansas can hold out against the combined pressure of the Missourians and of the national government. Their only salvation is a change of the Executive power of the Union, in the election of next November.

The Paris correspondent of the N. Y. Tribune says that he does not know of anything so badly funny as the fantastic tricks of some of our countrymen and countrywomen in Paris, to display in their unsuccessful attempts to imitate European manners and attain a position. The complacency with which they ignore the origin of their fathers', or their wives' fathers' money, with which they write and speak bad French in lieu of bad English, with which they set themselves up for a laughing stock to their foreign models and their sensible fellow-countrymen, merits the attention of the authors of the Lotgneis and the Potiphar Papers. Would that one or the other of them, "laughing in his Easy Chair," would chastise these affected manners.

The ladies of New York have inaugurated the fashion of very deep fringes to their parasols, the present season. There is a tendency towards an enlargment of the shapes, and the Summer bonnets will be much larger probably than they have been for several seasons. The minimum of size having been touched, it is but reasonable that the usual revolution of fashion should run toward the other extreme—and we may yet reach the amplitudes of the Havanna and Lafayette school, when there was room inside for two persons.

The Opening

The blessed but [illegible] come on disand the high-piled [illegible] will solve and pass away in [illegible] breaking up the ice blockades of the rivers, bearing away winter's [illegible] to the great ocean.

The opening of [illegible] been anticipated in all the great [illegible] activity in business, by an unwonted energies of transportation by [illegible] are called into requisition. The great West expands itself for the [illegible] almost incalculable amount of [illegible] and other goods, and at the same [illegible] becomes filled with streams of food for the [illegible] family of men. The resources of the whole country are in a hurried process of [illegible], and the great avenues of trade are [illegible] with metals and minerals, with lumber and grain, with machinery and manufactures of every variety and the products of the [illegible] and mines; and yet the most active [illegible] of industry in our land, at the present time is in the direction of agriculture. The first great act of the first man, and of all [illegible] of men in all ages. Thousands are rushing [illegible] spend their industrial forces upon the [illegible] to build comfortable and attractive homes, where by the least expenditure of [illegible] and money, work and skill, they may get the most beautiful things of earth, and the truest and best expression in outward life [illegible] of the good and true of the inward life—[illegible] they may establish so far as mortals can [illegible] the earthly life, a true representative in the family home of that home of which all hope to become members, in the heavens.

This generous awakening to vigorous impulses in business and in [illegible] pursuits, prospectively at least, is [illegible] to one section of the country, but [illegible] sections. In our own good State of Maine [illegible] unusual exertions have been made by the people, and particularly by the young men, for [illegible] activity in farming, and of availing themselves of all the facilities which offer for [illegible] success. The quantity of seed and grain [illegible] put in Maine last winter exceeded by [illegible] month than that of any previous year, and [illegible] demand for them is active [illegible] much usual. Great efforts have also been made to procure from their natural [illegible] in swamps and meadows, suitable for [illegible] and other better system of cultivation has been adopted. More frequent inquiries have been made for the best fruit trees and vines adapted to our climate, and the most approved stock, and in all departments of the [illegible] of our State. Its gains are not sudden and [illegible] but they are seen and felt, and enjoyed by the quick and regular accumulations of years. Those who have pursued agriculture in [illegible] steady pursuit, for ten years, are now independent in their pecuniary affairs.

The smaller cut of timber [illegible] Maine the last winter, and the [illegible] ment, part [illegible] necessity for obtaining lumber [illegible] will have a tendency to refine the manufacture of [illegible] and thus give a wider scope for [illegible] in that direction.

There is much of the right kind of feeling among the young men of the State, especially with mechanics and workers, [illegible] to apply their surplus earnings to the procurement of a house and home, for their [illegible] instead of being dependent upon [illegible] dwellings. They can begin with small [illegible] and by putting up for a time with snug quarters [illegible] a while by saving rent and by [illegible] little jobs, get them good comfortable houses, with shrub and vine, and tree and fruit and flowers.

While the commercial, the mercantile, the manufacturing and the farming interests of the country are all ready and eager for the highest activities in their several spheres, and while the bow of hope spans the arch of the prosperity of our country, it will be most desirable if the interests of the politicians who now govern the country, shall by their recklessness, their selfishness, or their blunders, imperil all these interests and blight all these prospects. Let the country be at peace—let a wary economy use its efforts for indefinite extension—let the rule of freedom be the object of our government prevail, and then prosperity shall be realized, the hum of industry be heard in all our borders, and the people go on rejoicing.

Mr. T. L. Clingman a Southern member of Congress has some out [illegible] is the fashion with southerners, [illegible] a long letter to his constituents. Like all these Southern letters the essential topic is slavery, and the real design is to teach those to whom they are addressed how to vote. This letter is as far from truth, and from all right and just views of the American government and the spirit of the age [illegible] it is possible for mortal to be. Gloomy forebodings of the dissolution of the union, accompanied with striking demonstrations of the necessity for the result if the present conflict between north and south continues, acrimonious and distorted caricatures of northern sentiment, and a general detestation of all things liberal form the whole material for these [illegible] elaborately drenched. Mr. C. is to be sure a little [illegible] as he declares the final effect of the Anti-Nebraska rangers, to be the amalgamation of the black and white races, and that finding themselves defeated by the settlers in Kansas, they continued to forward large bodies of [illegible] ists and other ruffians, armed with rifles, cannon, and the like weapons [illegible] to carry out their diabolical plans there. Nothing would be more gratifying to them than to see the southern men and women whom they have so long vilified, degraded to the level of negroes.—Long observation has satisfied him that envy and malice have more to do with the abolition movement than fanaticism.

The first parish in Bedford, Mass. have very cheerfully voted to increase the salary of their pastor, Rev. Wm. G. Coggin, by an addition of two hundred dollars; thereby signifying that the relation, which has happily existed for eighteen years, should still continue.—There are several other parishes in that vicinity over which faithful pastors are settled, who should follow the worthy example of the Bedford friends.

April appeared yesterday with a wet eye, but fearful showers fell scantily on, briefly, and ran into a mist instead of the copious showers we expected, from the morning's promise. The rain and the removal of floor-work cannot long be delayed, for beauteous May has an engagement here in a few weeks with her buds and flowers.

Downing says that the essence of all that can be said in grape culture respecting soil, is that it be dry and light, deep and rich. A dry bottom is highly essential, hence a bed of stones, shells and bones, eighteen inches below the surface, has been useful. The manure thought to be best, is vegetable mould or muck, with a portion of ashes intermixed.

Mr. Thorington, of Iowa, has been suddenly called away from his seat in the House of Representatives, by two dispatches. The first stated that his nephew was in the last stage of consumption. The second stated that John E. Thorington had on that day been knocked down to their banking house, in Rock Island, and choked until he was insensible, and that the house itself had been robbed of three thousand dollars.

James T. McCobb, Esq., has been nominated as a candidate for Mayor, and Wm. Paine for Judge of Municipal Court, of Portland, by those in favor of the present State Administration.

A caucus of all opposed to the present National and State Administrations was called, in Portland, for Friday evening, to nominate candidates for the offices of Mayor, and Judge of Municipal Court.

Indian Wars of 1855.

The documents accompanying the report of the Secretary of War present a vivid but most melancholy picture of our Indian relations. The last year was a period of almost unceasing conflict between the white and the red man, in Washington and Oregon Territories, in California, New Mexico, Texas, and the Northern Plains. From the reports of military officers, communicated by the Secretary, we doubt whether, in all the annals of the long struggle between the races on this Continent, a year of more active and relentless warfare can be found.

The correspondence of General Wool with the Department throws nearly the whole responsibility for the bloody scenes which have darkened the history of the year in Oregon and Washington, upon the whites; and indicates, we think, his dissatisfaction with the service in which he is employed. He describes the insults and outrages inflicted upon the Indians with detestation, and of the exploits of the rangers and volunteers with scorn. On the 30th of January, 1855, he states that savage excesses were committed upon the Indians in Oregon, by certain of the inhabitants, and the Indians retaliated by shooting some of the aggressors. It appears that, in the General's opinion, this was the beginning of the war. Accordingly, he seems to have employed his troops as energetically in protecting the Indians as in avenging upon them the alleged wrongs of the citizens. He speaks of some of the volunteer leaders by name with severe condemnation, and condemns their so-called "battles" with the Indians as unprovoked murders. He indicates his opinion that their claims for pay ought not to be allowed. Nevertheless he approves of the summary trial and hanging of some of the Indians charged with murders in revenge of outrages committed upon them by the whites, when conducted by authority of his own officers.

In one case an Indian shot a white man at a council held by an Indian agent. He was committed to the custody of a detachment of troops. A party of whites killed the offender and another Indian while in charge of the troops. The latter fired upon the whites and killed three of them. This little incident passes as miscellaneous business, without remark. On the 19th of October, Gen. Wool quietly observes, "the whites have determined to exterminate the Indians in that region, hence they kill indiscriminately, the innocent as well as the guilty."

Gov. Curry, of Oregon, goes into the war with enthusiasm and rest strongly in contrast with the obvious disgust of Gen. Wool. He promptly calls out thirteen companies of volunteers, promising pay from Uncle Sam's ample chest. He congratulates himself that on the short space of three weeks eight hundred men fully armed and equipped responded to his call, trusting to Congress for reimbursement.

The following illustration of savage warfare has a touch of the horrible with which Salvator Rosa might have tinged his gloomiest creations. It is from Gen. Wool's dispatch of November last.

"Capt. Smith reports that a party of whites, who had organized themselves into a company, with the avowed purpose of assisting the regular troops in pursuing and chastising the Shasta Indians for recent murders, attacked, the 8th ult., two camps of friendly Indians in the immediate vicinity of the Reserve, and killed twenty-five—four very old men, four young men, and seventeen squaws and children. Exasperated by these brutal outrages, some of the Indians on the Reserve, and in the valley, heretofore friendly, proceeded to murder the whites indiscriminately, burning their houses, and destroying everything in their way."

But it seems that blows are to be taken as well as given. On the 3d of October, Major Haller, with one hundred dragoons of the regular army, was defeated by the Indians and forced to retreat, after losing five of his men killed, and nineteen wounded, one cannon and thirty horses and mules.

"In New Mexico the operations were active from 1st of January to 1st of June. The campaign ended in May with a battle, in which forty Indians were killed, and about sixty wounded. Ten or twelve sharp skirmishes marked the progress of the war, in which the Indians were generally routed and dispersed, but on one occasion they killed the commander of the attacking party, and some of his men, and forced the survivors to retreat. On another occasion, the Indians surprised a settlement and killed fifteen men, and carried off the women and children.

In Texas the State has cultivated Indian wars for the amusement and profit of her citizens; and General Persifer F. Smith has performed the part of a candle looker on in Verona. This duty of supervision, however, has cost the Government nearly two millions of dollars within the year.

Fortunately for the credit of the country, the history of the Sioux Expedition is short. It consists solely of the report of the Commander, Gen. Harney. He describes clearly and frankly the massacre of the Brule Indians at the Blue Water on the 2d of September, without apology, and without any attempt to conceal its atrocious character, evidently considering that it is his business to kill Indians and not to justify himself for doing so.

We observe with surprise and deep regret that in transmitting this report to the Adjutant-General, Gen. Scott [illegible] to write that "the General-in-Chief highly approves of the conduct of Gen. Harney and his command."

Such is a brief and imperfect [illegible] summary of Indian hostilities for 1856. It is [illegible] or the good and the wise to consider whether [illegible] c. humane from which these results flow is [illegible] justing and managing the poor remnants of the [illegible] cept by the concluding this conflict of races [illegible] Times. extirpation of the weaker?—*N. LEGISLATURE OF MAINE.

TUESDAY, April 1.

SENATE—Mr. French from Committee on Insane Hospital, reported that the petition of the City of Bangor, should be referred to the Committee on Accounts—accepted.

Bill, "an act to incorporate the Westbrook Branch Connecticook Boom Company," came from the House amended in various respects.

On motion of Mr. Lowell the Senate concurred in the House amendment, and the bill was passed to be engrossed.

Mr. Butler from the Committee on State Lands and State Roads, made a report of ill of Affairs in the Land Office, for the last ten years, which was laid on the table.

HOUSE—The question under discussion when the House last adjourned, was upon concurrence with the Senate in the appointment of a committee to make arrangements for giving a hearing to Judge Davis.

Mr. Morse of Bath, read from the provision of the constitution, and urged that the whole proceeding on the part of the Senate is irregular, unconstitutional, and an invasion of the rights of the House. If there is to be an address, for reasons, shall the House have no voice in shaping upon those reasons? Is the House merely to register those acts of the Senate? Mr. M. spoke at length against concurrence, contending that there is nothing properly before the House for action. If there was any question before the House. Mr. M. asked the yeas and nays upon it, which were ordered.

Mr. Barker of Exeter expressed his thanks to the House for the courtesy which they had manifested in giving facilities to prepare speech—anticipating Mr. B.'s argument—papers for the press.

Mr. Talbot introduced a resolve in favor of John B. Hill ($132 for 44 days services as clerk of the Committee on the Land Office), read and assigned.

Varieties.

The best emblem Liberianism was that perpetrated by Mr. McKeon, of New York, when in Congress. When in the midst of a speech, and on being called to order by a member for being personal in remarks, he exclaimed—"I am not personal, Mr. Speaker. I had no reference to the sensitive gentleman in what I said, but, sir, this is not the first time that an arrow shot at a venture has hit the very mark that was intended."

Mrs. Make-an-Appearance says, "others may do as they please, but I won't have my girls moping over sewing work, care—care comes soon enough, they shall walk, read, play the piano, and do what they please, poor things!"

Above all things, there should be no gibbon at home! The shadows of dark discontent and wasting fretfulness should never cross the threshold, throwing their large, dark shapes like funeral palls over the happy young spirits gathered there. If you will, your home shall be a heaven, and every inmate an angel there.

Western Emigration.—The New Hampshire Patriot says:

"We hear of persons in all sections of the State who are starting for the West, or preparing to go, while many have already gone this spring. The one day last week, an agent of one of the great routes to the West sold fifteen tickets to men going from this vicinity. There is no doubt that more people will leave this state for the West this year than have gone in any three past years."

Prof. Hoyt of Exeter, N. H., is to deliver the address before the Athenæan and Peucinian Societies at the next commencement at Bowdoin.

The editor of Harper's Magazine says he hates a clam because it is a miserable attempt to be an oyster.

The District Court of Kansas meets at Lecompte, April 7th, when the case of the members of the Legislature, Governor, and other State Officers, will be presented to the Grand Jury.—Affairs in Kansas are quiet.

A collection of old French Poetry, from the earliest periods, and extending to 40 volumes is about to appear under authority of the French government.

From principle, every man in the Free States should resolve not to rest till Slavery is overthrown; for the person who will trample the black man under foot, would treat the white the same way, were it in his power.

In newspaper circles there is a report that Mrs. Partington is about to change her domicile, and will shortly become connected with one of the most popular and largely circulating journals.

EARLY TOMATOES.—This is a very difficult vegetable to bring forward early in this climate. To do this, I would, about the last of March, take five flower pots, six inches in height and diameter, fill them with good loam, put in several seeds and let four plants grow to four inches high; take all but the most thrifty one out, stir the dirt often, and by the 1st of May they will fill the pots with roots and be in blossom. Having exposed them to open air a few days, transplant them to good and warm soil, and you may have ripe fruit by the last of July. Try this and you will find it better than begging poor plants late every year.—Kents Sentinel.

Surely, those who have been so long toiling for the rights of humanity never had so much to encourage them to continue their efforts, as they now have. A few more closely and firmly contested battles, and that prestige of victory—which in this country has so long been on the side of Slavery—will have passed away forever.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 8, 1856.

Messrs. C. & J. Marshall—Gentlemen—At the request of your Agent in Baltimore, in regard to our opinion and experience of your copper coated spikes, we, without hesitation, say we believe them the best substitute for copper yet introduced, and better fastening for ships, inasmuch as you have the strength of iron with the preservative qualities of copper.

We have used some of your Spikes in old vessels as a substitute for copper, and have had occasion to draw them out a year afterwards, and found them with the coating as firm as when they were driven, and with no appearance of oxidation.

Very respectfully yours,

WASHINGTON, April 3.

SENATE.—The Senate to-day passed a bill for the relief of the widows and orphans of officers and seamen of the sloop of war Dale; also, the joint resolution declaring that the act in which the pension laws for the benefit of the Cherokee Indians shall be executed.

Mr. Collamore, Kansas affairs being under consideration, argued to show that by the true political construction of the constitution, Congress never submitted the question of territorial slavery to the people of the territories, and hence that Congress had the right to exclude slavery. He defended the Lecompton Constitution, and read from South Carolina papers to show that the South had adopted similar principles, thus entering into competition with the North, which was altogether proper. Without concluding, he yielded to a motion to adjourn.

Hon. Chas. Wheeler, United States Minister to Naples, is anticipated. Several changes in the Cabinet are mentioned, one of which is that Marcy will not keep our Government posted on the affairs of that country, having no despatches to him by the last steamer. The State Department is said to be in possession of secret information that the filibuster Walker's movements in Nicaragua were known before the Cabinet. Secretary Marcy is the acknowledged author of the scheme.

Mr. Soulé is preparing an elaborate speech on Central American affairs, which will probably be delivered next week. It is understood that Mr. Soulé, of Louisiana, Mr. Benjamin, of Louisiana, will follow Mr. Soulé, of Mobile, who will follow Mr. Mallory on the same subject.

The Illustrated Ferry Boat New Jersey.

PHILADELPHIA, April 3.

The illustrated ferry boat New was launched to-day. One of the furnaces was found open. The United States Inspector examined the interior and found it to be defective.—The boiler would waste it had been mended with sheet iron, but burnt away. Numerous leaks were discovered about the back legs of the furnaces, the water acting upon the furnace, thus causing steam and force out a hole. The inspector says it is a matter of astonishment that the boiler could have exploded without accident. The plates, in many places, were reduced to one-third of their original thickness. The boiler was totally unfit for service. It was also found that the plates and brick-work under the boiler were open, through which fire would communicate to the wood work on the bottom of the boat.

The Coroner's Jury met to-morrow to find a verdict.

Cheap & Convenient Building.

Door, Sash and Blind Factory.

A. DUNBAR

HAS been very successful in completing several contracts for Door Frames, Doors, Window Frames and Sashes, and fill the bills for good dwelling-houses and other buildings to be erected in this city, the coming season. He has excellent workmen in his employ, and has superior stock, so that he is now able to supply to those about to build the best articles of Door Frames, Window Frames, Sashes, and Blinds made to any dimensions and of superior quality, either for a whole building or for a less quantity. The trouble and expense of building is very much lessened by having these articles made separate, so that the carpenters have only to put them in their place in the structure.
This business has now become so well systemized that only a small margin is left in knowing beforehand the cost of a dwelling-house, while the work is of a uniform excellent quality.
Any one interested can examine specimens of the work at the factory, near the Rose Place, or at the store of M. S. Jackson, on Exchange st., and at either place any article may be obtained or large quantities ordered.
Mr. Dunbar is also prepared to furnish Window Blinds ready painted, and will hang them at the shortest notice.
By long experience, and by determined perseverance, the subscriber is now enabled to suit his customers, both in quality and price, and so well organized in the business that no man should now think of building in the old and slow and imperfect methods.
